Parental Rights & Special Education Process Summary- March, 2019

Procedural Safeguards Notice- The procedural safeguards notice includes a full explanation of parental rights in an easily understandable manner and in a parent's native language. This procedural safeguard notice applies to children and families receiving services through an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) and to children and youth with disabilities receiving services through an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

Native Language- Parents have the right to receive information in the language they understand.

Electronic Mail- Parents may choose to receive notices electronically if this option is available.

Prior Written Notice- Parents have the right to receive written information about the public agency's actions concerning their child's early intervention services or special education.

Consent- A public agency must get parental consent to assess a child for early intervention and special education and related services, and before providing early intervention and special education and related services. Parents have the right to withdraw consent at any time. There are some exceptions to consent for evaluation.

In addition to the actions for which the IDEA requires parental consent (initial evaluation, initial provision of services, and reevaluation), Maryland law requires that an IEP team must obtain the written consent of a parent if the team proposes to: Enroll the child in an alternative education program that does not issue or provide credits towards a Maryland High School Diploma; Identify the child for the alternative education assessment aligned with the State's alternative curriculum; or include restraint or seclusion in the IEP to address the child's behavior as described in COMAR 13A.08.04.05. If the parent does not provide written consent to any of the proposed actions listed above, the IEP team must send the parent written notice of their consent rights no later than five (5) business days after the IEP team meeting informing them that: The parent has the right to either consent to or refuse to consent to the action proposed; and If the parent does not provide written consent or a written refusal within fifteen (15) business days of the IEP team meeting, the IEP team may implement the proposed action. If the parent refuses to consent to any of the proposed actions listed above, the IEP team may use the dispute resolution options listed in Education Article §8-413 (mediation or due process) to resolve the matter.

Surrogate Parents- The local lead agency or the local school system shall assign a surrogate parent to represent an eligible child if: the parent cannot be identified; the public agency after reasonable efforts cannot find the child's parent; the child is a ward of the State of Maryland.

Independent Education Evaluation- If a parent disagrees with an evaluation completed by the public agency, the parent has the right to have the child evaluated by someone who does not work for the public agency. The public agency has 30 days to respond to the parent request.

Confidentiality of Information- Parents have the right to review their child's records and ask the public agency to correct their child's record if they think the record is not correct. Parents have the right to consent to release information about their child, yet consent is not required in some circumstances. Parents have the right to expect the public agency to keep their child's early intervention or educational records confidential and ask the public agency to destroy their child's educational information when it is no longer needed.

Discipline of Children with Disabilities- Parents have the right to specific procedures and protections if the public agency takes certain disciplinary actions towards their child. A public agency must provide a child educational services, after the child's removal for more than 10 days in a school year for a violation(s) of a student code of conduct. This applies to children with disabilities, ages 3 through 21, receiving services through an Extended IFSP or an IEP.

Parental Unilateral Placement of Children in Private Schools at Public Expense- IDEA does not require a public agency to pay for the cost of education, including early intervention or special education and related services, of a child with a disability at a private school if the public agency made a free appropriate public education (FAPE) available and the parent chose to place their child in a private school.

Transfer of Parental Rights at Age of Majority- In Maryland, parental rights do not transfer to children with disabilities on reaching the age of majority (18 years of age), except under limited circumstances.

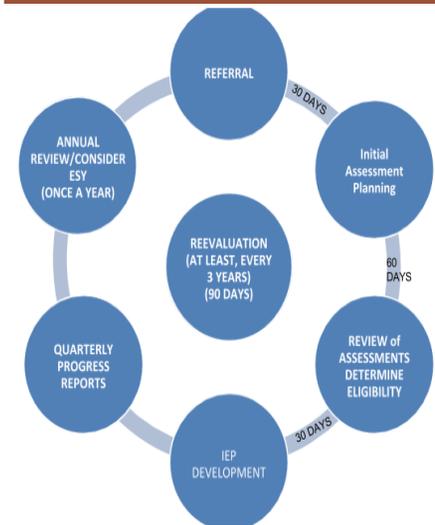

Resolving Disagreements- The following procedures describe the processes available to parents and public agencies for resolving disagreements regarding a child's early intervention or special education program and related services. These options include mediation, State complaint, and due process complaint.

Mediation: Mediation is a process that may be used to resolve disagreements between the parents of a child with a disability and the public agency responsible for the education of the child. If during an IEP team meeting a parent disagrees with a child's IEP or the special education services provided to the child, the IEP team shall provide the parent, in plain language: An oral and written explanation of the parent's right to request mediation; Contact information, including a telephone number, that a parent may use to receive more information about the mediation process; and Information regarding pro bono representation and other free or low-cost legal and related services available in the area. Parents may request the information about mediation to be translated into the parents' native language. If the native language spoken by the parents is spoken by more than 1 percent of the student population in the local school system, the IEP team shall provide the parent with the translated document within 30 days after the date of the request.

Attorney Fees- In any action or proceeding brought under IDEA, the court may award reasonable attorneys' fees to the parent/guardian(s), public agency, MSDE, or any prevailing party.

IDEA Dispute Resolution Process Comparison Chart- The chart outlines the IDEA Dispute Resolution Process in a visual format- located on page 28 of the Procedural Safeguards manual.

Special Education Process

What Special Education Services are Available?

Special education services designed to meet the needs of students with disabilities may include classroom instruction, physical education, vocational education and/or language and speech therapy. Related services are services required to assist a student with disabilities to benefit from their special education services and may include speech pathology, physical and occupational therapy, audiology, psychological services and counseling. Special education and related services are provided to students with disabilities based on their educational needs within the least restrictive environment. Services are based on the student's needs and determined by the IEP Team that considers learning environments, including the general education classroom with consultative services, general education classroom with special education services, special education classrooms, special education schools and residential settings. Home and hospital instruction may also be provided to students who unable to attend school due to a physical disability, long-term illness, or an emotional condition, if a doctor's order is provided.
